Q: Best way to sum two string fields I have two tables in a postgresql database. Table1 have 3 columns. ID(id), sc_name(sc name), course_name (course name), where ID is an integer representing a student. Table2 have the same 3 columns. ID (id), student_id (id of student), course_id(id of course). I would like to count a column "count" which represents the number of students, that has done the same course, for example: ID | student_id | course_id | count ----- 1 | 8897 | 901 | 4 2 | 8897 | 101 | 4 3 | 8907 | 901 | 2 4 | 8907 | 1002 | 4 5 | 8907 | 101 | 4 In this example, the student with id 8897 done 2 courses (101 and 901) and the user with id 8907 done 4 courses (101,1002,901 and 1003). I would like to generate a query which gives the sum of the count column. I don't know the best way to deal with the scenarios where a student has done more than 1 course, in this case the student with id 8897 need to be added to the query result with the count value of 1.

A: There are many ways of doing this. Maybe something like this will work: select t1.id, t1.student_id, t1.course_id, count(t2.id) from t1 inner join t2 on t1.student_id = t2.
