However, one of my (big) suggestions is to add in the ability to select the tab which you'd like to see (and show) when you open the app. Currently, it's hard to tell which one is which. Also, with this being a free app, it'd be nice to have the ability to add "shortcuts" to the app so that all you have to do is click once on the app, and the program pops up with the options. Overall, great app. by Anonymous on 14/09/2010 by Anonymous on 15/10/2012 by Anonymous on 17/06/2012 by rian19 on 17/06/2012 It is a useful tool,but cannot see when it is recording my blood pressure.Q: Remove user from front end of community for a view I'm having a bit of trouble with a trigger and a custom view. I need to be able to remove a user from a particular view. I have a view: Where there is one multi-select field, and one single selection field In my trigger I have a line like so: if(view.isUserView){ view.getEntities().remove(User.Id); } Which I get a nice exception that the record is null: When I run the query on the user in the query analyzer, I get the desired result: How do I get this trigger to get the correct result? A: The error is because the User in the User instance is referring to a profile, rather than a user. Your trigger should be: if(view.isUserView){ view.getEntities().remove(view.getUser()); }
