An amazing insider testimony I received from just a couple of days back as I was reading through an American blog, and as I share it with you, if you are a leader, manager, a leader of a family, or a leader of a team, you will understand the impact that this post could have on your life. Ever since I lost my job, I have been wondering what I should do next to get my life back on track and to set an example for my son, and to establish a new future for us. At times, I think of investing in a car and being able to help my family for the long run. I have thought of opening a coaching business, a small business perhaps, for the benefit of the family and I have thought about starting a new business of my own. As I am going through my options, I read about this American man who had lost his job on the plane ride to London when I came to the conclusion that I should take the firm of a professional coach. The coach was recommended to me by several people in the business world I have met at various occasions. The coach who knows the secrets of leadership and management was kind to give me his time and his opinion on how to set the things right. I realised that I could not fail if I was going to try my best to get my life on track. On the airplane ride to London, I spent some time wondering if I could start a blog and put into writing the thoughts on leadership and management that would help the people around me and also help the young generation who are emerging from the very generation I had followed. While riding the airplane, I had discovered that the secrets to leadership and management were ways of making people's lives better. The secrets had come to me as the result of being a leader and a manager for most of my life. As I thought of some ways that will help my readers and myself with the same, I realised that we could not have our life back in a day or two. That was c6a93da74d
