I have a bash script with a function which has following parameters: `function doSomething() { echo -e "PARAM1 : " $1 echo -e "PARAM2 : " $2 }` In my script, I want to use the following command: `function doSomething() { echo -e "PARAM1 : " $1 echo -e "PARAM2 : " $2 echo "Doing something else" }` The problem is `doSomething()` always says: `read -e -p "enter any number" any_number bash: -c: line 1: syntax error: unexpected end of file I don't want to use read because this is a parameter for a function which takes any number, and the error message is also strange. I understand my script can be better. A: You can not have a space after the -e. Try: function doSomething() { echo -e "PARAM1 : " "$1" echo -e "PARAM2 : " "$2" echo "Doing something else" } or function doSomething() { echo -e 6d1f23a050`
