Roblox is an online game platform and game creation system developed by Roblox Corporation that allows users to program games and play games created by other users. Created by David Baszucki and Erik Cassel in 2004 and released in 2006, the platform hosts user-created games of multiple genres coded in the programming language Lua. For most of Roblox's history, it was relatively small, both as a platform and a company. Roblox began to grow rapidly in the second half of the 2010s, and this growth has been accelerated by the COVID-19 pandemic. Roblox is free to play, with in-game purchases available through a virtual currency called Robux. As of August 2020, Roblox had over 164 million monthly active users, including more than half of all American children under 16.

Although Roblox has received generally positive reviews from critics, it has faced criticism for its moderation, microtransactions, and exploitative practices directed toward children. YouTube is the world's largest video hosting platform. Launched in 2005 by three former PayPal employees who were inspired by the successes of video sharing platforms like Veoh Networks, YouTube grew rapidly. Now more than 1.9 billion people use YouTube to watch more than 1.7 billion videos a day. The site has an estimated 42.5% of worldwide internet users in August 2020 and is the top web destination for premium content, including video, music, gaming, and news, reaching even mobile and smart TV devices. Million Hands [Million Hands] is a 2015 American documentary film. Directed and produced by Jeffrey Jones, it explores the history of the work of the Million Mom March, a coalition of grassroots organization formed in 2000 by women in the U.S. to protest low wages and working conditions for the nation's low-wage women and children. It was produced by Vital Films. Million Hands had its premiere at the United Nations headquarters in New York City. The film was broadcast worldwide, generating much attention, particularly for the scenes of the Million Mom March on Washington, D.C. Growing up, Eric and Tom were friends. Tom was best friends with Eric's brother, Mike. They played video games, sometimes going out for pizza or going to sleepovers. After high school, Mike got a job in Florida, and began to cut off the boys from each other. Meg's mom told her, "You just need to think more about
