“Join the Brotherhood in the quest to save the Northern lands where life is fading. Platform and battle your way through multiple levels on your journey, or become Super Mario and jump on your enemies to kill them! Do not expect an easy game though, this platformer has dangerous traps all over the place!” About Guardian: Guardian is a side-scrolling action-platform game with elements of retro gaming, reminiscent of earlier NES and Super Nintendo games. GNU Linux has somehow led the trend of users who switch to Linux for free-ness. But the "free" features, too, shouldn't remain free — all these have been built upon and monetized. This is Premium membership has made the Linux Desktop more user-friendly, yet monetized. - The GNU Media Player is a simple media player with a selection of built-in multimedia formats. We provide a complete set of tools for manipulating media. Most of all, we provide a set of pre-built packages for each GNU/Linux distribution that are ready for an almost perfect experience. If you don't, you can try our packages. If they don't, please do an issue report or send a pull request. We are often asked why we chose to include Linux as a primary target. The GNU Project is a non-profit project, and this allows us to work on media software without the burden of licensing fees. This is only a Why GNU/Linux? Most free-to-use software makes the user experience better on GNU/Linux, but still has its faults. GNU Media Player provides all the latest features (and a few useful ones you won't find anywhere else), but the best part of it is its simplicity. It's as easy to use as VLC, while providing features like subtitles and chapters and multiple languages. The GNU Media Framework provides the ability to control multiple streams, subtitles, chapters and languages with just a few clicks. How Can You Help? You can help by reporting issues. You can also help by reporting issues, patches or enhancements for the software. Donations are also welcome, and a list of accepted platforms is available. Set in the year 2013, noir-inspired video game studio Arzest Entertainment has put together a dream team of outcasts and nomads to help rise from the ashes of the massively multiplayer online game Cash Out In Order To Win. Playing as one of the odd ones, you must navigate the harsh reality of a game without a life with your partner, an old classmate, a foul-mouthed loner with an axe to grind, a power-hungry man-hating woman, and the only person who could possibly relate, a one-time online television personality with a knack for putting the world's biggest games in perspective. These characters have an impact on your quest to level, upgrade skills, and defeat the titular goddess... and possibly win life itself. Features: More than 70 characters to choose from, including several original Arzest characters. A variety of amazing and bizarre skill trees that expand in breadth as you level up. Quality performance and English localization. In-game achievements and rewards Steamworks leaderboards and achievements Full support for controller and keyboard/mouse/touch Up to 4 player multiplayer Generous in-game powerups. Oblivious to everything but his game, Jazzpunk is ready to escape with Dr. Nerdlove.8/10 PLAYGAnti-game: A brief, occasionally comic but ultimately disappointing investigation into the effects of video game genres.3/5 AmazonHard to describe, but worth the effort.5/5 AnindoGamesIt's extremely easy to laugh while playing this game.9/10 IGNMaybe one day.6/10 Eurogamer Jazzpunk is a Japanese/U.S. co-production created by Square Enix and Iguana Entertainment, who also created the Square Enix produced, Iguana Entertainment published, Square Enix published (and currently Square Enix owned) PS4 / PS Vita sci-fi rail shooter, Enslaved: Odyssey to the West. It's sole localization of choice, which still requires a Japanese PS4 or Vita copy of the game to use this story mode, which tells the story of a young man's quest to prevent the destruction of all life on the planet by the cyber-octopus Agoraphobic. If you're thinking "ew gross, a post-apocalyptic story about a video game," that's about the level of exposure I have to Jazzpunk, and where I was going with this. So, if you, too, haven't played Enslaved: Odyssey to the West, or haven't played it that well to know what to expect, I can tell you that Jazzpunk is an absolute delight, delivered via an absurdist visual style, a consistent and sublimely persistent soundtrack, and an engaging interactive story which can be finished in about three hours. Jazzpunk tells the story of Dr. Nerdlove, an amoral mad scientist who, long before he became the world renowned, game-obsessed "Dr. Nerdlove," lead an apocalyptic-fearing life. While in college, he would leave his dorm room and hide in the rafters of a bar, as far from his fellow students as he could get. It was only after being told he had no power to change this sad reality that Nerdlove, through "soulful engagement," saved the Earth, ascended to godhood, and ascended to heaven. Eventually, he encountered his wife Mindy, of whom he's now the proud step-father, and his brother Clyde, who the Doctor more than usually loves. Jazzpunk is about the Doctor's struggle to prevent the end of the world as we know it, but it's also

The year is 2114 and the planet is divided into five states, each headed by a powerful, dictatorial dictator. On the mean streets of the five capital cities, riots continually rage between the supporters of state ideologies. Police and National Guard combat against the demonstrators and sometimes turn their own machine guns on one another. This is "W-World". Welcome to the post-fascist state of W-World. Welcome to Hate Plus. School district to host 'Days of Creation' 3:30 PM, Nov. 28, 2012 Written by St. Aloysius Catholic School at 543 South Lorain St. will be hosting the "Days of Creation" event from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Saturday. The event is an introduction to Catholic theology, and participants will learn about the origins of creation and the place of humanity in the world. The cost is $10 per person, and the registration deadline is Tuesday. Music When I was a child I adored my father more than anything else in my life. I still remember how he used to sing to me. He was a very good singer, even though he was not gifted. When I would open my mouth to sing, he would burst out laughing and say "will you stop, when you don't understand a word". But it was very good for me. It made me learn by heart that which I did not understand and also because he was my role model and I have always followed in his footsteps. There was a time when I wrote my own songs and used to make a cassette and give it to my dad. After listening to it he said "you have read and written songs, you haven't written a single line". He would take me to attend meetings and seminars and come out with words of inspiration which I would read and memorize. I have always admired my father and have been following his footsteps. I do not know if my father ever meant for me to
