Linklibs is a reliable link management system that brings together a UTM link generator, a URL shortener and an analytics report tool under the same roof. Created for SEO experts, it provides them with the tools needed to organize and categorize links, and share them online. Work with multiple projects opened in color-coded tabs A new project can be easily created in Linklibs, as users only have to specify a location where the data will be stored. Linklibs allows them to work with more than one project at the same time, each opened in a different tab. To differentiate projects easier and make sure no link is added where it doesn't belong, each project is assigned a specific color. A UTM link generator and advanced analytics reports Links can be grouped in various user-defined categories, and UTM information can be recorded for each URL. Furthermore, all the data can be filtered by category, destination, or UTM source. Linklibs is able to build the UTM link based on multiple parameters, namely the UTM source, the content, the medium, the campaign, and the UTM terms. Additional link management options allow users to copy, duplicate or delete links from the list, or run time-based analytics to determine the number of referrers and the locations where a link was accessed from, as well as statistical information about used browsers and platforms. A valuable link management system for experts in this field Linklibs can be a real asset for professionals who know how to take advantage of its feature set to the fullest. Considering the above, it's safe to say it is a reliable link manager, with additional analytics capabilities. Moreover, it allows users to share their links on the most popular social networks from within its main window, with a single click. Mobile Link Copier is a utility to copy the web page to your mobile device.
