Many of these vehicles are equipped with an integrated G-sensor that detects small changes in yourGTA San Andreas License Key handlebars, and some even have a steering wheel. Users can test their skills both in a single-player and multiplayer mode. Their skills are rated on a scale of one to ten by the game judges and other online users. Once a user has scored a certain number of points, their skills are deemed to be certified. The progress of the certification level, denoted with a gold star, can be viewed from within the game. The driving lessons include a lesson on how to drive a motorcycle, commonly known as drivatar, which teaches you the basic techniques for control and the best practices for driving on the road. When learning how to drive, you are given the opportunity to make virtual mistakes and play each action again to ensure you have mastered each skill. You can take virtual lessons as often as you desire, and you are never forced to take a lesson, so long as you have the skill needed to take each lesson.
