My workflow is to edit images in Photoshop and then export them to the Lightroom catalog. You can click the "Export" button from the panels on the left side of Photoshop. You can then use Lightroom to import the images into Lightroom, find the ones you want to keep and export them. They are the same in a different environment. Q: jQuery Accordion - no animation on collapse i'm trying to create a jQuery accordion (or collapsible navigation bar) so the user doesn't have to move the mouse continuously to make the navbar collapse. I looked at some open source projects. zen tree and jquery ui are similar to what i want, but the animation is instant, whereas what i want is for the animation to happen when the user mouses-over the button, which is what zen tree uses. It's also better to have the animation occur automatically when the user clicks a button than to have the user manually use their mouse on the correct button. So what i want is: 1) Create a collapsible navbar using jQuery 2) Add some jQuery that will animate the navbar when the user mouses-over it. 3) Animation takes place as soon as the user clicks on a button Any help would be greatly appreciated. Thanks A: jQuery accordion is not the best fit for this job as you'll need to use the 'on('click'...' handlers. From looking at the code for your own projects I'd set up an onclick handler and hook into the collapse event. The clicked element can be found by it's ID attribute. The present invention relates particularly to the annular diaphragm which connects the valve body to the valve seat in a diaphragm-type check valve. It is well known that such check valves must be tested periodically to ensure that the diaphragm has not collapsed or sagged to any significant extent. Such check valves are, of course, relatively difficult to disassemble or assemble for this purpose. It is the principal object of the present invention to provide an apparatus for testing the passageway of a diaphragm-type check valve without requiring disassembly of the valve to effect the test..
