ItÂ .Up-regulation of the heme-binding protein CcmF of Rhodobacter capsulatus in response to oxygen deficiency. CcmF is a periplasmic heme-binding protein whose function has been assigned as a high-affinity reductase of cytochrome c2 in Rhodobacter capsulatus. It has also been demonstrated to be an oxygen-sensing protein by means of oxygen-dependent in vivo labeling of the cytochrome c2. The gene encoding CcmF was cloned, and N-terminal sequence analysis of the purified CcmF protein showed a sequence consistent with the signal peptide. Overexpression of ccmF in Escherichia coli showed that a mutant protein CcmF lacking the first 24 amino acids (CcmFdelta) is rapidly degraded by the outer membrane protein(s). CcmF was also up-regulated when R. capsulatus 1cdb36666d

In Symfony's documentation on the subject the following code is included:

container->get('security.token_storage')->getToken(); (see the documentation on TokenStorage/Security).
