The csv file is an archive file (the csv file has specific text at the start of the line). I convert the file to a list using the following code. Please take note that I am using this file for a purposes other than this code here. The class was created in a different code, but the import code is below. I am just using this code to see if it works for what I need it to. import requests import csv from bs4 import BeautifulSoup import pandas as pd path = "X:/project/input.txt" df = pd.read_csv(path,encoding='latin1') print df.index df.head() url_list = df[df['import column 1']=='archive'/'import column 1'].to_dict().keys() print url_list for row in df: start = df['import column 1'].astype(float) end = df['import column 2'].astype(float) url = row['url_column'].astype(float) title = row['url_column'].astype(float) print url, title, start, end A: You're trying to assign a float to a string. Use the converters='as_recarray' parameter to Pandas.read_csv: df
