Q: How can I highlight the marked text in a tab in vim? When I use gVim on Windows (which I cannot use for linux), I highlight the text by pressing the Ctrl + T (Tab) keys. How can I do this in vim? A: You can use visual mode to insert the highlight: `:set hl=` This turns off highlighting text when you type (and maps it to to turn it on). If you want to apply highlighting to the highlighted (i.e. selected) text, you can put this in your.vimrc: `execute ':'. 'visual'. (exists('termguicolors')? ':termguicolors' : '') . '(hl=%)' . "`

1. Technical Field The present invention relates to a control of outputting a print output sheet with continuously folded edges from an image forming apparatus using an electrophotographic process, and more particularly to a control of folding and outputting a print output sheet on a continuous paper or the like while continuously keeping an edge of the print output sheet parallel to edges of the continuous paper in a direction perpendicular to the paper's widthwise direction.

2. Related Art When a continuous paper is used as a print output sheet in an image forming apparatus using an electrophotographic process, a fold (corner folding) can be easily performed on a print output sheet folded at its end in a direction perpendicular to the paper's widthwise direction and then outputted by a winder as it is, resulting in a high output efficiency. However, when a print output sheet having been folded at its end is used in such an image forming apparatus, there is a risk that the folded end of the print output sheet is pulled by a paper guide or the like and folded in a direction toward a roll (see, for example, JP-A-2012-223123). This may cause the folded end of the print output sheet to pull the paper guide, thereby causing the paper guide to curl toward the paper roll. More specifically, when the print output sheet is pulled and folded at the folded end in the direction toward the paper roll, the paper guide becomes curved toward the paper roll, and therefore a curved part of the paper guide rubs the paper roll, so that the paper roll curls and forms
