I tried this: re.sub(" ", "", filename[1:]) And this: re.sub(" ", "", filename[1:]) And this: with open(filename, "r") as f: lines = f.readlines() new_lines = [[line.strip()] for line in lines] And nothing works... A: This gives you all the lines, with. at the end: with open("test.txt") as f: for line in f: if line.strip(): print(line) If you just want the "naked" lines: with open("test.txt") as f: for line in f: if line.strip(): print(line) Q: Join two tables in MySQL without common field I have two tables in MySQL, no common fields, how can I join them, like select from s1, s2. I tried it with inner joins, but s1, s2 are not the same, I have two table rows in one, with s1 and s2 values. A: Inner join works fine. But there is a better way to do it in your case. Just give an alias name and join them with that alias name. i.e. select s1.s1, s2.s2 from s1, s2; Besides this, if you want to apply an inner join with multiple tables, you should use INNER JOIN. i.e. select s1.s1, s2.s2 from s1 inner join s2 on s1.s1 = s2.s1; EDIT : If you have more than 2 table join together, you can use CROSS JOIN. i.e. select a.a,
