What are the 5 Moments That Changed the History of Golf in Five Minutes The history of golf is littered with moments that changed the direction of the sport, both on and off the green. Here are five big moments in golf's history that happened in just five minutes: 1. Alexander's second Alexander was the best golfer on earth in the 1760s and 1770s, but he was eventually dethroned by a Scotsman named Willie Park, who toured the world from 1769 to 1775 and was known for his ability to keep his temper in check and for his speed. After he left, no one proved to be as dominant, and it was generally accepted that golf was a game that had to be mastered by a clearly superior player over a set period of time. Then in 1774, an Englishman named James Renwick taught his brother-in-law to play golf, and the pair won five successive first prizes at the St Andrews Great Links Open. On the final day of the final competition in 1775, Renwick won by what was then the biggest victory margin ever, 36 holes to zero. To this day, it is impossible to point to a single moment that changed the direction of the sport, but this moment is one of the most famous. 2. Champion's curse Champion is probably the most famous name in the history of the sport. This is largely because no one, no matter how good, was able to successfully defend his crown for a decade or more. This was born out of a combination c6a93da74d
